Claims 1 to 13 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noguchi (U.S. 5,184,261) in view of Luffel et al (U.S. 6,222,699). Noguchi discloses a storage library (figure 12) for recording and retrieving information from a plurality of storage media cartridges (1), wherein each storage media cartridge has a label side in the form of barcodes (14), the storage library comprising: a housing having left, right, front, and back sides, left (4) and right (5) plurality of slots disposed proximate the left and right sides of the housing for holding the plurality of storage media cartridges; at least one media drive (7) disposed proximate the back side of the housing, the at least one media drive being operative to receive a storage media cartridge through a port; and a robotic mechanism (6) disposed between the left and right plurality of slots, the robotic mechanism being operative to move the plurality of storage media cartridges between the plurality of slots and the at least one media drive.

As per Claims 1, 10, 12, and 13

Noguchi does not disclose his storage library having a front side opening such that the left and right plurality of slots and the plurality of storage media cartridges are oriented so that each label side of the plurality of storage media cartridges is visible to an operator through the opening, and wherein each of the left and right plurality of slots are accessible to the operator via the opening for the operator to access the storage media cartridges being held by the left and right plurality of slots.

Luffel discloses a storage library having a front opening (254) to allow an operator to view and access left and right cartridge slots (figure 5).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the storage library of Noguchi with a front opening to allow an operator to view and access left and right cartridge slots. The motivation would have been: as evidenced by Noguchi, it was known to provide such a door to a storage library to allow an operator to access the interior of the storage library and perform such positive functions as changing out cartridges or replacing/repairing malfunctioning elements of the storage library.

As per Claim 11

Official notice is given that it was notoriously old and well known in the art to have cartridge cabinets take the form of removable magazines.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the cartridge cabinets of Noguchi take the form of removable magazines. The motivation would have been: to do so allowed for cartridges to be removed from the storage library en mass and allowed for plural cartridges to be transported to a different location or to be inserted into a different storage library.

3. Claims 2 to 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
